

Kitchen Lighting

When lighting a kitchen, we must separate two types of lighting: the one necessary for handling food, utensils and appliances, and the fixtures we use to give beauty to the space. It is recommended that the 'work light' has a cold temperature, for it allows us to see more clearly what we have in hands; at the same time, cold is a perfect light for work areas, it activates our energy and makes us more efficient when preparing our dishes. But we must not forget that current trends in interior design have made our kitchens the protagonists of the house, and they are often spaces shared with the dining room or living room, so that the design of the luminaires that we place in certain areas is very important. At ALMALight we have solutions that will allow us to combine, on the one hand, a powerful light for the ceiling of work areas, with beautiful suspensions on the other, that will provide a touch of design to the island area or the breakfast table.

Models such as 'Bath-A-Led', 'Moon' or 'Sun', among many others, are ideal as luminaires for general kitchen ceiling lighting

And we also have countless suspensions such as 'Soft' 'Drop Led' 'Led Box'

And we also have countless suspensions, such as 'Soft', 'Drop Led', 'Led Box', 'TheChandelier' or, if we dare to create impact, our 'TheLight' or 'ThePalm', just to name a few, which will give our informal kitchen areas the final touch in terms of design and originality.

Do you have to light up a kitchen? Write to info@almalight.com , we will study your case and will propose to you our best option.

Alma Light, Cristobal de Moura 195 08019 Barcelona Spain