TOTEM II

Design by Cristian Cubina

Following the launch of the Totem II floor lamp in January 2023, this February we present a new member of the collection: the Totem II pendant.

This suspension includes two models that combine, like the floor lamp, noble materials such as iron and glass. They convey a refined retro air that plays on the contrast between weight and lightness, solidity and transparency, robustness and clarity. The transparent glass lampshade turns the Totem II hanging lamp into small luminous columns that provide light all around. Ideal for residential projects, in a dining room, on a kitchen island, illuminating the bedside table, lighting up a stairwell... Totem II can also provide touches of contemporary design to a retail space, common areas of a hotel or restaurant establishment, a reception desk or a waiting room.

There are two Totem II suspensions: one 50cm long and the other 25cm long. Each of them, in turn, comes in two versions: one with a greater luminous flux (16W 1520lm 2700K) to be installed individually, and another with less luminous output (10W 920lm 2700K) ideal for forming groups, where the light requirement is not so demanding and energy savings are the priority. The iron structure includes three fastening rods, base and cover also made of iron, and three steel cables that link the cover with the canopy. It is available in textured black painted or in satin bronze by electrolytic bath. The shade is made of 12cm diameter fluted transparent borosilicate glass, and the light sources are integrated Led modules, always dimmable by TRIAC.
