Pica by
ALMA Light
Design Josep Novell & Josep Puig

Pica is the new floor lamp by ALMA Light, with its strong steel structure and a wide cotton lampshade adjustable in height. Pica owes its name to a type of ancient spear of a defensive nature that is very present in a multitude of works of art... And based on this historical idea and the 'look' of the old wrought-iron technique, its two designers, Josep Novell and Josep Puig , modernize these concepts and condense them into a sober and elegant light fixture that responds to their unmistakable style.

Pica has a markedly timeless style that perfectly adapts to the requirements of current lighting. Its wide cotton shade, which is covered by a plastic membrane, filters and softens the light. In addition, the shade can go up and down along the mast by means of a simple retention system, thus adapting to the needs of each moment. It is ideal for the living room, as a reading lamp next to an armchair or sofa, in a home, in a hotel facility, at the reception of a medical or cultural center... Also, in classic, minimalist and contemporary interior designs where an elegant floor lamp with a great presence is required.

Pica has a total height of 152cm. The shade is available in white, dark gray or customizable according to the interior design requirements, it measures 45cm in diameter and 22cm in height. The structure, with a cross-shaped base, is made of iron with a protective layer of manganese phosphate typical of industrial tools, and varnished. It includes an E27 lamp holder and the on/off switch is located in the lamp holder itself, which makes it easy to turn it on and off from the seat. PICA is not dimmable.
